Congressman Henry Brown Responds To Report by U.S. Commission on Ocean Policy

“I understand and appreciate the importance of our oceans to the economic and environmental well-being of my coastal district and the entire state of South Carolina. The U.S. Commission on Ocean Policy’s congressionally mandated report is critically important because it will provide the Congress with further evidence to support our efforts on the Hill to fight for increased funding for programs that protect coastal and ocean resources. I will continue to work with the Administration and my colleagues in the House to ensure that the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), the Army Corps of Engineers and other federal agencies have the resources they need to renourish our beaches, keep our ocean waters clean and make our coastal regions safe for all Americans.”
